In my art I move where the wind may blow or the storm may blast me.
I might find myself in the woods. I record, draw or write down what I find.
I cut and glue paper, film, sing, create poetry or paint.

The artist Max Ernst once said: art means to have an experience, an adventure. This happens to me in the forest and this is why I have joined the group "The Forest and The Storm", founded in 2018. It also is my motivation to participate in this project: to share artwork as well as ideas.

Since I have chosen to live on the countryside, since I have been tending to a garden and some animals, my love for nature but also my suffering to see all the damage we as a human race have done to it has been increasing continuously. I feel my sensitivity growing, sometimes my knowledge. Naturally, it also grows into my work, it is woven into every line I write and every line I draw.

Nature is my source of recreation and healing. So I want to contribute to healing nature.
